Cummins donates engines to over 60 ITIs across Maharashtra

One such engine is unveiled at ITI Phaltan

December 28, 2011; Phaltan: Cummins, the country's leading manufacturer of engines, generators and related components and technologies, has donated engines to over 60 ITIs across Maharashtra. One such engine was unveiled at the ITI Phaltan on December 27. The 82.5kVA B-series 6-cylinder Cummins engine was presented to Ashok Latkar, Principal- ITI Phaltan by Nagarajan Balanaga, Vice President-Human Resources, Cummins Group in India.

ITIs equip students with technical and soft skills desired by the automotive/manufacturing/engineering sectors.

Nagarajan Balanaga, Vice President- Human Resources, Cummins Group in India said, "Education being a critical part of Cummins' corporate responsibility efforts, the Company has undertaken this initiative to help the select 62 ITIs enhance their training programs. The hands-on experience of working on engines will help students hone their technical skills; which in turn will benefit them immensely as they begin their careers in the industry."

Besides the ITI in Phaltan, these engines are being donated to ITIs in Pune, Aurangabad, Sangli, Satara and Kolhapur, amongst others. In addition to engines, Cummins is also providing the required knowledge, skills, training and tools for dismantling and assembling an engine to the instructors at the ITIs.

Under Higher Education the other initiatives which Cummins continues to drive include; supporting the Cummins College of Engineering for Women in ways monetary and beyond, and providing scholarships to students from the disadvantaged sections of society.
